Caledon Public Library Remembers

Remembrance Day marks the anniversary of the official end of the World War I hostilities on November 11, 1918 and it is at this time of year that we gather to remember and honour all civilians and military personnel who died during armed conflicts.

Caledon Public Library is honoured to welcome Eva Meisels from the Holocaust Education Centre and the Azrieli Foundation on Thursday, November 8 at 10:30 am to the Albion Bolton Branch.

Eva Meisels was born in Budapest, Hungary, on July 3, 1939. When the Nazis occupied Hungary, she and her mother ended up crammed into one of 293 houses in the crowded Budapest ghetto, where 63,000 people struggled to survive. The sound of falling bombs and the sight of corpses piled in Klauzál Square marked her young life. Despite the horrors of losing family members and spending weeks in a basement bomb shelter, where she didn't see daylight for days she managed to survive and the unexpected kindness of strangers was critical to her survival. After the Hungarian Revolution, the family escaped to Austria, briefly settling in Vienna before immigrating to Canada.

Light refreshments will be served following Mrs. Meisels presentation. Visit the library website to register. Everyone welcome.
