Caledon Public Library Announces Limited Patron Access During Lockdown

Caledon, ON – In alignment with Ontario’s Covid-19 response framework, Caledon Public Library (CPL) will be resuming Limited Patron Access at all our branches effective Tuesday, November 24th, 2020.

This means that branches will remain open with limited hours, the number of patrons within a branch will be restricted and customers will only be able to access the branch to pick up holds, return materials and make use of computers (45-minute maximum per day on a first come, first served basis). No browsing of shelves or the use of study space will be permitted. Self-serve printing will be offered at the Albion Bolton and Southfields Village branches.

“The health and safety of our customers and staff remains our top priority,” says Colleen Lipp, CPL CEO and Chief Librarian. “Full details of all the safety precautions and protocols that CPL have in place to can be found by visiting the library website.”

We encourage our customers to continue to use our free Digital Library, offering hundreds of resources for all ages. For those in need of technical assistance, we offer Tech Help @ Home. Also, a reminder that while we can’t gather in person, we’re continuing to offer the same great programming you love, virtually! Visit our calendar for all the details.

CPL would like to thank the community for their ongoing patience and support during these challenging times. For questions or concerns, please call the CPL main line at 905-857-1400 and leave a voicemail, text to 416-828-7086 or email reference@caledon.library.on.ca.
